ALABAMA'S LIQUOR ADVERTISING LAW.

An interesting and exceedingly important constitutional point is raised by the recently enacted Alabama law in reference to liquor; and it is not likely to be settled until the highest court in the land has spoken.

Whether prohibition is good or bad for Alabama is a question which Alabamians have a right to settle for themselves; and if the people of Alabama believe that by the suppression of liquor advertising in Alabama papers they can convert the whole population into absolute abstainers, it is solely their business if, the laws and constitutions permitting, they say that no Alabama newspapers shall print a beer, wine or whisky advertisement.

But it becomes other peoples' business when the Legislature of Alabama goes so far as to say that no newspaper or magazine published outside that state shall be permitted to enter it if it contains such an advertisement; and the question ought not to be considered settled until the Supreme Court of the United States has answered whether or not such a law does not undertake to interfere with interstate commerce, to impose a press censorship and to infringe upon the constitutional rights of American citizens.

If a state may pass so far-reaching a law in respect to liquor advertising, it is a fair presumption that it may enact laws concerning almost any other class of advertising, and if it is privileged to say what shall and what shall not go into the advertising columns of a newspaper why may it not in the last analysis arrogate to itself the right to say what must also be excluded from the news and editorial columns?

And if the question is answered in the affirmative, what becomes of the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press which the fathers of the country considered so essential to the perpetuity of republican institutions on this continent?

Reform is not infrequently defeated by the radicalism of its advocates. If there is a reaction in Alabama against prohibition, it is most likely to be the result of the extremes to which its supporters have gone to force it upon the people.

LET THEM FEEL THE SUN.

The sun's rays make sunny children. It brightens their eyes and broadens their smile and puts the joy of life into their little souls. It strengthens their minds and develops their physique and lays the foundation for a career of honor and usefulness in the school of life.

Let the kiddies bask in the sun. Let its rays descend upon them, that in after years their souls may radiate the joys of life to those who follow in their footsteps.

For the sun is our most learned doctor, our profoundest preacher and the greatest builder and regenerator of the human race.

And an hour in the sun is more potent than an eternity in the shadows.

Next to the hard steely glint in the eye of a woman pushing a baby carriage when she comes upon another woman leading a piffing dog by a leash is the steely, hard glint in the eye of the woman with the dog on the leash when she comes upon a woman pushing a baby carriage.

Before marriage a man never seems to have any appetite; but after marriage he can calmly plan a menu, and discuss the salad dressing with the waiter while the orchestra is playing a Hawaiian love song.

When a man offers you his love, don't forget that it is like a bargain watch—he can't be expected to guarantee it for more than a year.

A girl may warble to you that she doesn't like flattery, but don't take a chance on telling her that she looks like a rhinoceros.

Asking Too Much.

A certain stock broker went to a horse dealer and tried to pick up a general utility nag. He explained that he wanted a nice, quiet, good looking animal for himself, which could be driven by his wife in a dogcart, and would not on occasion object to being hitched up to a lawn mower.

The dealer listened with rapt attention and finally asked, in dulcet tones:

"Would you like him to wait at table at all, sir?"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Made No Difference.

A woman mounted the step of a car carrying an umbrella like a reversed saber. The conductor touched her lightly, saying:

"Excuse me, madam, but you are likely to put out the eye of the man behind you."

"He's my husband," she snapped with the tone of full proprietorship.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, NO CHARGE.

A Warning About Canned Goods.

The trend of modern times appeals to women and makes them more interested in sanitary food-stuffs and in the care and delivery of groceries.

Just now it seems necessary to call attention to great quantities of canned goods that are being sold at reduced prices to make room for this season's produce. There is no objection in the world to patronizing such sales and making the best of your opportunity for a bargain, but reject all cans and tins that show rust around the tops or bottoms or have a dent or a swollen place on the sides.

Safety first is nowhere so necessary as in the home and arrangements have been made with most food dealers by manufacturers to return all battered or damaged cans and some rebate is usually offered. Therefore these damaged goods are not a total loss to the grocers but they are to the housekeeper.

Swelled places on cans show that there is gas, caused by decay within. Dents means that the cans have been knocked about and that air may have reached the food. Rust comes from dampness and when it is on cans you can be almost positive there is an airhole in the container.

Food that is packed in tins must be air tight to be fit for food. Ptomaine poisoning is one of the most dangerous we know. When it does not cause immediate suffering and horrible death in every case it is responsible for so-called stomach trouble many times.

As soon as a tin of fish, meat, peas, corn, tomatoes or any food is opened, turn it at once from the can and so prevent the growth of poison.

Physicians say that cancers, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, headaches and other ailments come from ptomaine or poison foods. The wonder is that we do not have more deaths from this cause, for many people use one-half of a can or vegetables and place the remainder, still in the original can, in the cooler until the next meal, and not infrequently is fish left standing in open tins! If we were not naturally strong and healthy we would succumb to such criminal carelessness instead of complaining of "tummy-aches" and headaches so frequently.

A shoveler in one of the Joplin zinc mines who had seen in the movies how the gold miners bought what they needed with gold nuggets, last week laid a small chunk of zinc ore on a bar counter and called for a beer. The bartender served the drink to him and laid down 20 cents in change and, of course, the crowd laughed and cheered.

Such is the spirit of the Joplin zinc boom, with crude zinc ore now worth 7 cents a pound, which is about 50 per cent higher than the refined product spelter has averaged for many years.

WEAK KIDNEYS

MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Ills of Maysville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so may weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers. Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease. When the kidneys fail there is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Maysville testimony is proof of their effectiveness. Mrs. Annie McClellan, 541 W. Second St., Maysville, Ky., says: "I was often dizzy and nervous and my head ached. I had pain in my back and my kidneys were weak. Doan's Kidney Pills stopped the complaint immediately and made me well and strong."

Mrs. McClellan is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. McClellan had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores.
